

Gluckstein Brothers & WC Coach Kovaleva head to World Trampoline Championships in Great Britain

Brothers Steven and Jeffrey Gluckstein and World Champion coach Tatiana Kovaleva are gearing up for the 2011 World Championships in Birmingham, Great Britain. This is an important competition for the international trampoline community because it acts as the Olympic Qualifying event for the 2012 Summer Olympic Games in London. World Championships is the first step down a 9-month journey to the London Olympic Games. First the country qualifies the place at either World Championships or the Olympic Test Event in January, then the place goes up for grabs within the United States. All athletes 17 years or older are eligible to fight for their chance to be an Olympian in the United States Olympic Trial competitions!

Tatiana and the boys are at the Olympic Training Center in Houston, Texas right now preparing! Wish them luck!

Fellow ETA UltraTwisters members Colin Duda, Audrey Ghanian, Cody Gesuelli, Jacob Moorman, Breanne Hatter, and Joseph Kozlowski will also be representing the United States in Great Britain at the Junior World Championships known as the World Age Group Games later this month.
